Where the Shoe Pinches. Any one who has as fair a chance as we possess through the Democratic papers of the South, to ascertain the spirit and temper of the southern people, will not accuse us of exaggeration in asserting that there has been no time in the last twenty years when they were influenced by such bitter animosity to the government and the North as they are now. From the feeling of hatred exhibited by the Democratic papers of the South, almost without exception, we have not a doubt that nine-tenths of those who took up arms against the government in 1861 would eagerly rush into rebellion again were one to be inaugurated by their leaders, however mad the enterprise might be. In making this statement we are confident we do the southern white people no injustice. Indeed we believe that so far from considering it an insult, they would frankly admit its truth. The threat is not an unusual one that they are only waiting for a favorable opportunity for another effort to regain the "lost cause."

Those who have lived amongst these people and learned how utterly slavery has crushed out everything like manly independence, how utterly helpless it has rendered them, and what an all-absorbing sentiment of pride and aristocracy it has engendered, will understand the cause of this feeling of bitter hatred to the gov- sent to the Judge Advocate General of the ernment and the North. They had much rather have been deprived of all their political rights than to have had the freedmen made citizens and voters.

It is not easy to decide whether the Southern people most bitterly lament being deprived of the right to live upon the unpaid labor of their slaves, or the legal elevation of the same slaves to equal civil and political rights with themselves. Until Congress shall restore to the late masters the first privilege, and take from the colored people the other, we shall have nothing but hatred and violence from them. All other measures of conciliation will be scorn-

The Capital Moving Speculation.

The second meeting of the band of adventurers and speculators engaged in working up a sentiment in favor of removing the Capital of the Nation, was held at Cincinnati two weeks ago. It was attended exclusively by men whose names are as new to the country, as their scheme is dishonest and foolish. Not a mother's son of them was ever heard of except in connection with this removal question. They met, not in pursuance of any public sentiment, or as the representatives of any class of people, but to get up a huge speculation.

lions of dollars, so long as they can enrich themselves by the operation?

The spirit and character of the men who composed the Cincinnati Convention is indicated by their refusal to read a letter sent them by Col. J. W. Forney in answer to their invitation to attend the gathering. It was against their scheme, and they therefore had neither the courage nor courtesy to have it read. But what else but this timid fear of light and truth could be expected from men assembled to insult the memory of the "father of his country," and impose an additional burden of two hundred millions of dollars upon the people of the nation, all for their own benefit?

A letter was received and read from HORACE GREELEY approving the removal scheme-insult, cost, and all-provided they would take it to New York City. With all Mr. GREELEY'S notions of economy, he is quite willing to tax the people any conceivable amount provided it we do philosopher injustice, and that the removal to New York as the of killing the absurd project. If he ndone and said so many strange things abuld not imagine him serious in advocating its removal to that sink of iniquity, the most hole on the face of the globe. It had better be taken to the infernal regions at once. The Tweed ring of robbers would steal every stone in the capital the day it was finished, and it would require a standing army to protect members of Congress from his bullies and thieves.

The prospects throughout this congressional district are bright, notwithstanding the encouragement offered the "Jones party by the Democrats-encouragement not only shown by words, but the more solid encouragement in the shape of money to pay men to work in Jones's interest, hoping thus to draw votes enough from Col. The Republicans of this district are alive to their interest, and are not to be caught in this Democratic trap-for the Jones movement was gotten up in the interests of the Democrats. Bolling's money will be spent in vain ; James H. Platt, jr., will be our next Congressman, and the administration will have secured a friend. Our district is the most important district in the State, from the fact that the navy yard is situ ated within its limits, and the importance of electing a Republican to Congress can thus readily be seen. What could we hope for in the shape of appropriations for this yard, or of work to be done here should a Democrat be elected? Col. Platt has wielded his influence to secure a large amount of work for this yard which would otherwise have gone North, work which can be done much more advantageously here than there, thus securing employment for our people and saving expense to the government. But the benefits accruing from the election of Col. Platt are nothing in comparison with those higher interests which are at stake in this contest. UNITED STATES SENATE CHAMBER. WASHINGTON, May 25, 1868. The undersigned have carefully examined the URVEYING MANUAL prepared by J. H. HAWES, and findi t a most invaluable work. In addition to complete and authentic instructions on all questions relating to the United States system of rectangular surveys, the work ontains a carefully prepared Synopsis of the Land Laws, and instructions for acquiring titles under them. It is almost indispensable to every Surveyor and Lawyer in the land States, and Herbs, and Barks, (or, as medicinally termed, Extracts,) the worthless or inert portions of the ingredients not being used. Therefore in one Bottle of this Bitters there is contained as much medicinal virtue as will be found in several gallons of ordinary mixtures. The Roots, &c., used in this Bitters are grown in Germany, their vital principles extracted in that country by a scientific Chemist, and forwarded to the manufactory in this city, where they are compounded and bottled. Containing no spirituous ingredients, this Bitters is free from the objections urged against duced from their use, they cannot make drunk-...1871 ards, and cannot, under any circumstances, have .. 1873 any but a beneficial effect.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC.

Was compounded for those not inclined to extreme bitters, and is intended for use in cases when some alcoholic stimulant is required in connection with the Tonic properties of the Bitters. Each bottle of the Tonic contains one bottle of the Bitters, combined with pure SANTA CRUZ RUM, and flavored in such a manner that the extreme bitterness of the bitters is overcome, forming a preparation highly agreeable medicinal virtues of the Bitters. The price of the Tonic is $1.50 per Bottle, which many persons think too high. They must take into consideration that the stimulant used is guaranteed to be of a pure quality. A poor article could be furnished at a cheaper price, but is it not better to pay a little more and have a good article? A medicinal preparation should contain none but the best ingredients; and they who ex-
